

Matthew Hallo is the program manager for the ETS (Expiration Term of Service) Sponsorship Program for the state of WI at Wisconsin Veterans Network. He was born and raised in Milwaukee, Wisconsin and holds a BA in International Economics and an Executive MBA from the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee.

In 2006 he moved to China as a carpenter to build the New US Embassy Complex in Beijing prior to the 2008 Olympic games. Upon returning home he enrolled as an undergrad at UWM and into USAF ROTC program at Marquette University. Upon graduation and commissioning into the United States Air Force, Matthew spent his time on active duty at the National Security Agency as an Intelligence Officer. Upon separating from the Air Force in 2017, the first civilian position was a construction project manager at Denver International Airport.

He moved back to WI after being accepted into UWM's Executive MBA program in 2020 where he connected with Wisconsin Veterans Network. Matthew now serves to set veterans up for success by connecting them with the resources and guidance that is in such high demand post transition.
