

KATHRYN M. HARTRICK is based in Chicago, Illinois.

She is the founder and managing partner of Hartrick Employment Law, Ltd. Kathryn delivers solutions in the areas of investigations, training/coaching, and employment law counseling. She has conducted several complex investigations, including those involving witnesses in Europe, senior leaders in the C-Suite, multiple complainant/respondents, and Boards of Directors. Kathryn is also General Counsel/Vice President for the global executive coaching firm, Robertson Lowstuter. She combines over 25 years of employment law expertise with training or certifications in investigations, mediation, and executive coaching. Kathryn is a former law firm partner and litigator, adjunct law school professor, and served as Deputy Commissioner for the City of Chicago Commission on Human Relations discrimination agency.

She has been a volunteer mediator for the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and the Illinois Department of Human Rights. Kathryn has held in-house senior corporate officer legal and HR positions with global publicly traded corporations such as Career Education, Wolters Kluwer, and United Stationers/Essendant. She is an elected Fellow to the College of Labor and Employment Lawyers, an Illinois Super Lawyer by Super Lawyers Magazine; and has a Martindale-Hubbell "AV" rating, the highest ranking in legal ability and ethical standards as determined by lawyer peers. For the past 15 years, she has chaired the North Shore Labor & Employment Counsel (NSLC), and for the past two years served as Board Co-President for NISHRM. She frequently speaks and writes on leave issues, sexual harassment/respect in the workplace, investigations, executive coaching topics, and employment law topics.

Her law degree is from Case Western Reserve University School of Law where she served on the Law Review, and she has a BBA from the University of Michigan Ross School of Business.
